REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Circular No. 6703-10, dated 21-28th December 1907.

The following extracts from Comptroller's letter No. 3194-416, dated 13th December 1907, are published for the information of the Deputy Commissioners and Taluk Treasury Officers for information and guidance.

The Nagadi gumastas and Savings Bank clerks should study the rules carefully and see that the irregularities noticed hereunder are not allowed to occur.

I. The rules printed and published and the instructions issued by this office from time to time should, if strictly followed, have enabled the Treasuries to carry on the work of these Banks efficiently. But I regret to report that the rules and instructions are often neglected and the result is that there are omissions and irregularities, the more important of which are given below:—

- (1) The interest due is not correctly calculated and it therefore very often happens that when an account is closed, more than what is due is paid to the party. This results in debit balances which remain unadjusted for months and years together.
- (2) When accounts are transferred from one Treasury to another, the amounts so transferred in some cases include the interest up to the date of such transfers, contrary to para 40 (a) of the Savings Bank Rules.
- (3) Payments are often made to the heirs of the deceased depositors without the production of the required heirship certificates. When these payments are made at Taluk Treasuries, the certificates received do not bear the counter-signature of the District Treasury Officers.
- (3)a. Instances also are not wanting in which part payments are made to the heirs of the deceased depositors instead of paying at once the full amount at credit and the deceased depositors' accounts kept open instead of being finally closed.
- (4) Names entered in the monthly journals sent to this office are found often to vary with those of the ledgers, thus showing that the posting of the ledgers is not done simultaneously with the journals as it should be.
- (5) The revised annual and aggregate limits are not properly watched, though special instructions were issued by this office. Very often sums in excess of these limits are accepted and such amounts are not repaid to the parties at once.
